

NAU EE Capstone Client Evaluation

From the Client, on the Team

As you all know, it is my top priority to provide an educational, helpful, and enlightening experience to my EE Capstone students every year, while also ensuring that the project they complete is actually useful for you. In a Capstone Utopia, everyone walks away having benefitted considerably. At this stage though, I would like to ask you, the client, to tell me how the project went. Did the students meet, or better yet exceed, your expectations? What was the experience like working with them? Did everyone participate from what you could tell? And of course, the tough question, would you repeat the experience again next year? Let's get to it!

Now for some open questions:

In general, did the students meet your expectations? Did they exceed your expectations? Did they fail to meet expectations? How, and why do you think that happened?

Considering that a class goal is to emulate a client contract, did the team treat you as a client whose business they were trying to earn and keep? Taking this a step further, what was the experience like working with them?

Did everyone in the group participate from what you could tell? Were there any stellar stand out students who you think did more work than her/his peers? Were there any students who you think left the work for her/his peers to complete instead? If you feel any students did better or worse than the others, please tell me who and why you feel that way.

This may or may not be your first capstone project with NAU. Based solely on this project, would you consider sponsoring another project (or two) again next year? Why or why not?
